

Wednesday, September 2, 2020

While this time of year is traditionally filled with excitement for the start of a new school year, it is understandable that there are probably some mixed emotions, with some anxiety over the uncertainty of our school year, that are infringing on that excitement. As a parent, I certainly can understand and respect the wide range of emotions involved in examining the prospects of a new school year in the modern Covid-19 era in a virtual setting. With that being said, we are committed to facing these challenges

