Addictive Behavior

Definition:

Excessive use of technology that interferes with daily life, work, school, or relationships. It is characterized by compulsive use, loss of control, and negative consequences. Examples include gaming disorder, social media addiction, and internet addiction.

Warning Signs:

- Spending more time on technology than intended.
- Feeling irritable or anxious when unable to use technology.
- Neglecting responsibilities, work, or school due to technology use.
- Using technology to escape problems or negative emotions.
- Experiencing physical symptoms like eye strain, headaches, or sleep problems.
- Losing interest in activities that were once enjoyable.
- Hiding or lying about the amount of time spent on technology.

Tips for Parents:

- Set clear rules and limits for technology use.
- Encourage open communication and discuss the risks of addiction.
- Monitor and supervise technology use, especially for younger children.
- Promote healthy alternatives like outdoor activities, reading, or family time.
- Seek professional help if addiction is severe.
